THE BANK

- » SUITABLE FOR BIRTHDAYS, CORPORATE EVENTS, WEDDINGS, ENGAGEMENTS
- » CATERS TO GROUPS OF 20-500

These days, Melbourne is considered one of the world's most livable cities, but back in the 1850's gold rush, it was the world's richest city, and people thought the streets were paved with gold.

At the turn of the last century, 394 Collins St (corner Queen St) was home to "The Bank of Australasia". Built in 1876 from New Zealand Oamaru stone, with ornate metal balustrades, this opulent site is listed with the Australian Heritage Commission and the National Trust of Australia as a heritage site.

This beautiful & ornate building played an integral part in Melbourne's economy during the Gold Rush and the great depression, making this space a true Melbourne icon.

It's one of the few surviving buildings that was not lost to the wrecker's ball during Collins Street's redevelopment during the 50's. Up until 1974 it was a bank. In the 1990's, it was 'Sebel Of Melbourne', Accor's premier hotel brand before the days of Sofitel. Now, the upstairs of the building primarily hosts the "Treasury on Collins" accommodation facilities.

The Bank on Collins was opened on the 15th October 2015 and is perfect for corporate gatherings, engagement parties and weddings. The floor plan is versatile enough to accommodate any style of event, catering for close to 700 people across both levels. This is a spectacular building and we are thrilled to have brought it back to life and restored its former glory.

Detailed features include a 17-meter brass bar top, 18 copper beer taps, 3 gold wine taps, 120pax seater restaurant, and ornate detailing throughout.

“The Bank on Collins” brings affordable luxury to the precinct and is in keeping with what we do best. The concept sits above our award winning “Father’s Office” concept in terms of style, sophistication & menu offering with outstanding value for money in another outstanding space - you can bank on that!
